PROCEDURES TO BEING AN OFFICIALLY RECOGNIZED STUDENT ORGANIZATION

If you are interested in creating a student organization at Cuyamaca College, these procedures will outline the process:

- 1. Discuss the goals and objectives of your group with the Associate Dean of Student Affairs
- 2. Obtain the registration packet form from the Student Affairs Office
- 3. Find a faculty willing to serve as your advisor
- 4. After your registration form is complete, meet with the Associate Dean of Student Affairs for initial approval to proceed with the creation of your constitution
- 5. When you have completed your constitution, please submit the document to the Associate Dean of Student Affairs. After the Associate Dean of Student Affairs reviews your constitution, the document will be forwarded to the Clubs and Organizations Committee for review and then sent to the ASCC. After your proposal is approved by ASCC, the ASCC Advisor and Vice President of Student Services will review and make the final approval. Upon their approval, you are eligible to assume status as an officially recognized organization and can use the college name; facilities upon request; and may receive monetary support from the ASCC

ADVISORS Responsibilities and Tips on Advising

General Responsibilities

The nature of the relationship of the advisor to the student organization will vary with each organization, however, all advisors are concerned with (1) responsibility to the organization, (2) responsibility to the individual, and (3) responsibility to Cuyamaca College.

Student organization faculty advisors play a vital role in the overall function of the organization. The most successful organizations usually are those in which the advisor takes an active interest.

To be effective, it is essential that organization advisors are fully aware of their duties and responsibilities. Some of these responsibilities may include:

- 1. Being responsible for providing continuity within the organization. Student organizations are dependent on the advisor to provide knowledge, guidance, and direction as new members coordinate activities, traditions and services.)
- 2. Being well-informed on all plans and activities of the organization through regular attendance at meetings and frequent consultation with the officers
- 3. Assisting in training of new officers
- 4. Providing assistance in the planning of the overall programs and help in preparing for individual events
- 5. Encouraging participation by all members of the organization
- 6. Justifying the expenditure of students' time, abilities, energy, and dues within the program
- 7. Encouraging opportunities within the organization, which will contribute to student development
- 8. Attending activities and social functions of the organization
- 9. Approving and justifying all expenditures
- 10. Encouraging an organization officer to regularly attend Inter-Club Council
- 11. Assisting the organization in maintaining the current records required by the Student Affairs Officer: minutes, list of membership, financial statements, constitution, public information and publicity

12. Interpreting to the organization the college philosophies and policies when helping the group coordinate its program.

Generally, contacts with the organization will take place in two settings: (1) discussions with the club president, and (2) attendance at meetings and other club activities.

A good vehicle for discussions with the club president is the planning for the agenda for the next meeting of the organization. This will not only provide a working structure for conducting the meeting, but can be an opportunity for discussion of other areas.

What the Organization Can Expect from the Advisor

- 1. Assistance with advance planning, especially with regard to long -range goals and short term projects
- 2. Information on the history of the organization and the sources of information for the solution of problems in financing, scheduling, etc
- 3. Attendance at meetings and functions
- 4. Representation at faculty meetings when the organization is involved.
- 5. Advising on leadership development areas
- 6. Freedom to call you in times of emergency
- 7. Knowledge of the organizations and advising members on potential violations
