

The cerebral cortex of the human brain is very crumpled. This allows more cortical surface area to fit inside our rather small skull. The actual surface area, if unfolded, is about the size of four sheets of notebook paper.

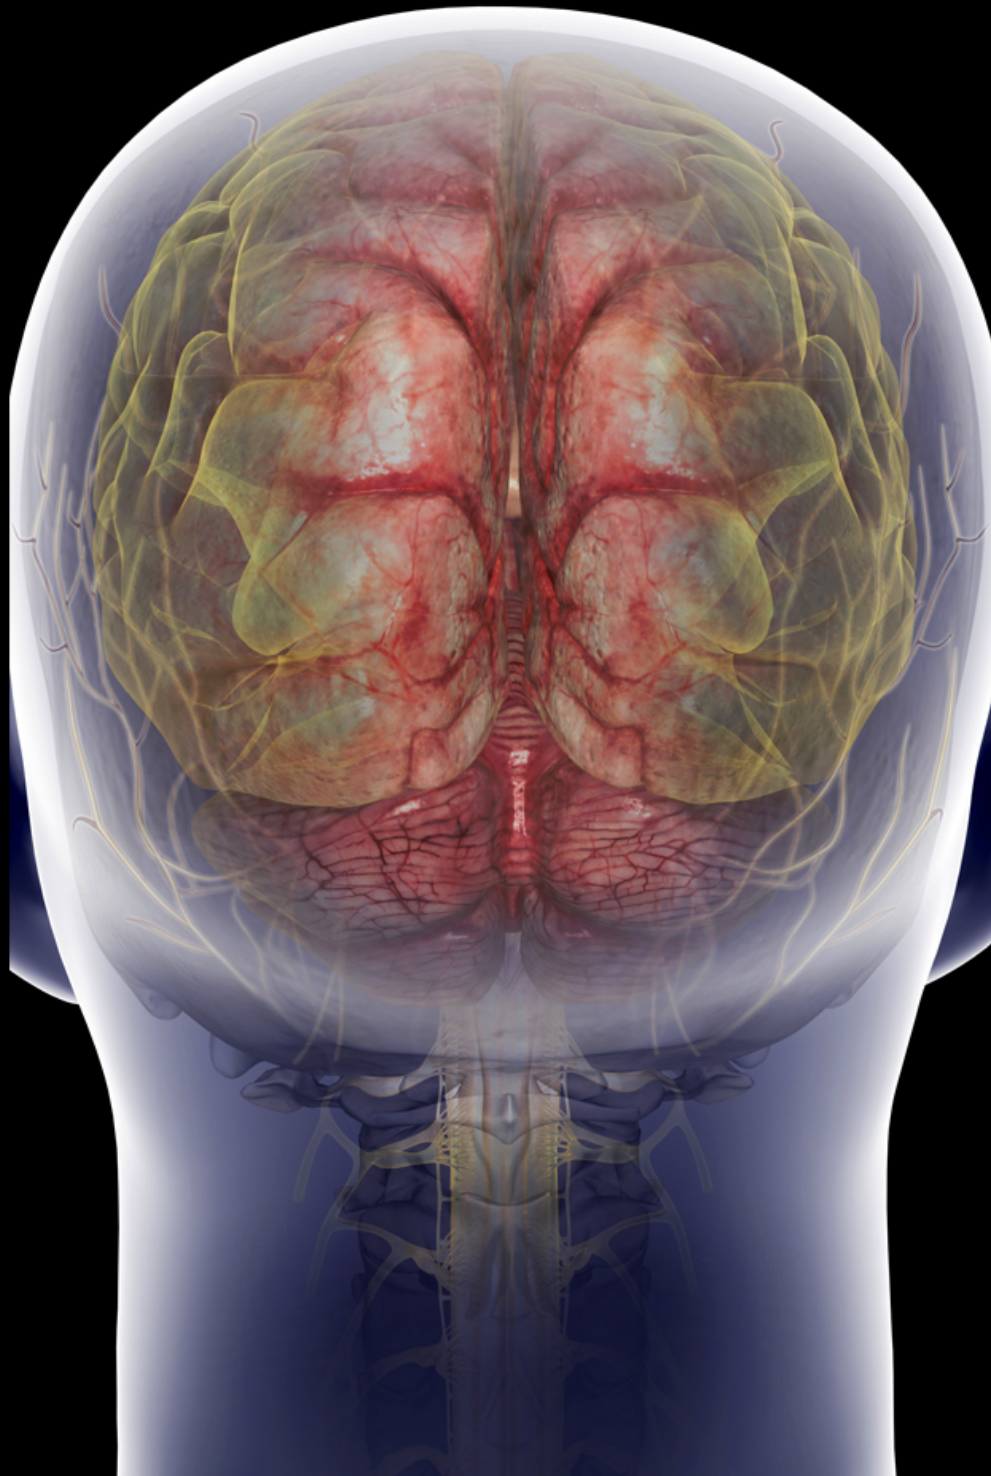

The human brain
Photograph by Fred Hossler/Getty Images

Brain Scan

Brain and cervical spinal cord
Image by 3D4Medical.com/Getty Images

